"Fighting The Great White Plague"

BARRE, TUESDAY, APRIL 11, 1911.

SIROLIN Versus Old-Fashioned "Cough Cures"

The Swiss prescription marks many years' advance in the treatment of throat and lung ailments.

Acid, Chloroform, and Cannabis Indica—little wonder that they were able to deaden the symptoms of Coughs and Colds and similar ailments.

But they had little effect on the cause of these affections and they almost always upset the stomach—ruined the appetite—dried up the secretions—caused constipation—and many have created dangerous drug habits.

Realizing the danger in popular cough remedies, recent laws in certain sections of the United States prohibit the sale of cough remedies containing active poisons.

These laws have compelled the manufacturers to change their formulas, so that now most of the popular cough remedies will be found without their old-time effects, which was due to the dangerous narcotic drugs which they formerly contained.

SIROLIN comes from Switzerland to America to take the place of the old-fashioned cough and cold remedies. It is endorsed by the leading throat and lung specialists of Europe for trifling, as well as the most serious ailments of the throat and lungs.

SIROLIN not only effectually combats symptoms but removes the cause of throat and lung affections. It tones the system—creates appetite.

SIROLIN is a truly modern preparation and is becoming recognized throughout the world as one of the great agents in fighting "The Great White Plague" through its power to prevent coughs and colds and other throat and lung ailments from becoming serious maladies, such as Pneumonia and Consumption.

TRIAL UPSET BY WHISTLE

Court Suspends Sitting Till
Calm is Restored

IN TRIAL OF CAMORRISI

Witness Continues Attack on Amedeo—
"Once Without a Cent He Now Has Five
Lawyers."

Viterbo, Italy, April 11.—President Bianchi's way of dealing with disturbances at the trial of the Camorrista is to suspend the sitting and so frequently is this prerogative exercised that the proceedings are seriously delayed and promise to be long drawn out.

Yesterday the sound of a whistle from among the spectators was sufficient to start a commotion that ended only when an adjournment was declared.

Giuseppe Ascritore was undergoing cross-examination at the time.

Ascritore is charged with having falsely denounced Tommaso De Angelis and Gaetano Amedeo as the murderers of Giovanni Cuccolo and his wife in furtherance of a conspiracy with the priest, Ciro Vitozzi, through whom they sought to free of suspicion Enrico Alfano, his brother Ciro, Gennaro Ibello and Giovanni Rapi.

On Saturday, Ascritore told of the peculiar actions of De Angelis which convinced him of the man's guilt.

Today he recounted the evidence which had satisfied him that Amedeo was one of the assassins. He said that Amedeo had been so poor that he had often asked the prisoner for the loan of a few francs. "Now," said Ascritore, pointing to Amedeo, who was seated in the audience, "that gentleman comes here as an accuser. Then he was without a cent; now, he goes to the expense of having five lawyers."

Amedeo retorted, "I am always more of a gentleman than you are."

"One day," continued Ascritore, "Amedeo, being drunk, said that there was much apprehension in the public mind regarding the Cuccolo affair. He said that only $120 was divided among the murderers, though some persons secured great profit by selling the furniture from the home of the Cuccolos."

At this point, a whistle blast started every one in the room. The lawyers sprang to their feet in indignant protest against the interruption and in the confusion, the president announced that the sitting was suspended.

JUDGMENT AGAINST UNIONS REVERSED

United States Court of Appeals Reverses
Lower Court Decision in Danbury Hatters' Case.

New York, April 11.—The long standing controversy between the Danbury, Conn., Hatters and United Hatters of North America was brought up again yesterday by the reversal of the judgment for $232,240.12 which D. E. Lowe & company of Danbury obtained as damages for the unions' alleged boycott of the hat manufacturers' interstate business.

The United States court of appeals took up the case on a writ of error to review the judgment of the circuit court in Connecticut. In an opinion written by Judge Lacombe and concurred in by Judges Coxe and Noyes yesterday, the judgment is reversed.

The verdict upon which the judgment was originally entered was practically directed by the court, who left to the jury merely the matter of damages, as the "only question with which they could properly concern themselves."

The jury assessed the damages at $74,000, which amount, in accordance with the conspiracy provision of the Sherman law, the court trebled.

The court of appeals sustains the chief assignment of error, the act of the trial judge in taking the case from the jury, and sends the case back for a new trial. Errors in the admission of certain testimony are also pointed out for avoidance in a new trial. One instance is the admission of evidence showing that defendants had paid dues to their union after the complaint in the present case was served. This, says the appellate tribunal, was not competent either as showing ratification of acts of union agents or that their acts were authorized at the time they were performed previous to the suits.

The trial court also permitted a salesman of the plaintiff to testify that customers had been warned by labor representatives that unless they ceased to handle the plaintiff's goods they would get into trouble with the union. The court of appeals holds that this was improper hearsay testimony.

The upper court says in an obiter dictum that "if it is shown that individuals could be induced a manufacturer or engaged in interstate commerce to conduct his business as they wish it should be, such obstruction is a violation of the Sherman anti-trust law."

The court of appeals refuses to assent to the plaintiff's contention that mere membership in and contributions to the union, make any member a principal of any agent who may be employed by the union and responsible, as such principal, for illegal methods used by the agents. Something more must be shown it is declared, such as express or tacit approval of such agent's acts, or other conduct fairly susceptible to the interpretation that the agent was warranted in assuming that any unlawful methods of his would be ratified.

The Danbury hat case, as it came to be called, has been in the courts since 1905 and has practically resolved itself into a contest between the American Anti-boycott association and the American Federation of Labor.

WHAT I WENT THROUGH

Before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Natick, Mass.—"I cannot express what I went through during the change of life before I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was in such a nervous condition I could not keep still. My limbs were cold, I had creepy sensations, and I could not sleep nights. I was finally told by two physicians that I also had a tumor. I read one day of the wonderful cures made by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it, and it has made me a well woman. My neighbors and friends declare it had worked a miracle for me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is worth its weight in gold for women during this period of life. If it will help others you may publish my letter."—Mrs. NATHAN B. GREATON, 51 N. Main Street, Natick, Mass.

The Change of Life is the most critical period of a woman's existence. Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to medicine that will so successfully carry women through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

NO DECISIONS GIVEN.

Supreme Court Still Considering the Trust Cases.

Washington, April 11.—Another decision day passed yesterday without the supreme court of the United States announcing its decision in either the Standard Oil or the tobacco "dissolution suits." This means that the decisions will not be forthcoming for one more week.

The cases involving the constitutionality of Missouri's statutes on passenger and maximum freight rates were restored to the supreme court docket yesterday for reargument. No announcement was made as to the reasons which led to the arrangement.

The justices yesterday gave their attention to the story of a Boston nurse girl, Miss Mabel Allen, lost in the city of Chicago during the world's fair and never heard from since.

A modest fortune awaits her return, but because of her long absence relatives claim it should be distributed among them according to a Massachusetts statute, the constitutionality of which is questioned by the court.

receiving having the money in custody. The court held to be valid the so-called "Grant patent," covering a system of setting rubber tires on carriage wheels. The point was brought to the court by the Diamond Rubber company of New York, which had been enjoined by the circuit court of the United States for the southern district of New York from infringing the Grant patent. This action was approved yesterday by the supreme court.

SENTENCE IMPOSED.

Upon Man Accused of Swindling Christian Science Readers.

Boston, April 11.—A sentence of a year in the Cambridge house of correction was imposed yesterday upon Samuel G. Parker, who, as Eli M. Dow, was arrested in New Haven in February on a charge of attempting to swindle the first readers of the Christian Science churches of the country by asking them to contribute to a fund to obtain the property of Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy, the founder of the church.

Parker admitted that he had obtained $18 in money orders and checks from three first readers, but made no effort to cash them.

MUTINY AT CANTON?

Chinese Troops Resent Regent's Decree

EUROPEANS ARE FLEEING

Rumor Exaggerated, London Thinks—No Advances Received of the Reported Trouble.

London, April 11.—The Evening Times claims to have advices to the effect that all the northern Chinese troops stationed at Canton have mutinied because they are dissatisfied over the action of the prince regent in proclaiming himself commander-in-chief of the army. The paper states that Europeans at Canton are fleeing toward Hongkong, London banks having business connections in Hongkong have heard nothing of the reported revolt and thing that the affair must have been greatly exaggerated as otherwise they would have been advised.

The London Daily Express published a dispatch from its Hongkong correspondent yesterday morning saying that a serious rising at Canton was reported. The tartar general commanding the troops was said to have been murdered. There has been no official confirmation of this report. On April 3 an imperial edict was issued at Peking in the name of the infant emperor assuming for him supreme command of the military forces and appointing the prince regent general in chief pending the attainment by the emperor of his majority.

TAFT NOT TO PASS ON ARIZONA ACT

Effort Made to Save Him Embarrassment Over State Constitution.

Washington, April 11.—President Taft may be relieved of the responsibility of approving or disapproving the Arizona constitution, according to a report at the White House yesterday. An effort is to be made, it was said, to amend the enabling act so that Congress alone shall pass upon the constitution. This plan is favored by the Arizona delegation, composed of several members of the Arizona constitutional convention, by Chairman Flood of the House committee on territories and Representative Houston of Tennessee, a member of the committee.

Mr. Flood brought the proposed amendment to the attention of the president yesterday and Mr. Taft assured him that it met with his approval.

That part of the amendment of Mr. Flood which relieves the president, read as follows:

"And that portion of section 22 of said act which requires the affirmative approval of said constitution by the president is hereby repealed."

The president has felt some delicacy in dealing with the Arizona constitution. He is understood not to favor the recall of judges, provided in that instrument, but he believes that Congress might better pass upon it and permit it to be tried out in practice.

Matchmaking

By LUCY M. ROE

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

"Tom," said Mrs. Vandever to her husband, "we need more recreation—I don't mean going out in the evening after you have come home all tired out, but some one to come in and chat with us or play cards."

"Well, my dear, all I have to say is that I'm content as it is, but if you care to invite any person or persons in here so that I won't have to go out and see them I don't object."

"I have a plan all laid out. There's Ralph Eldridge. He's thirty-five, and it is time he was married. Now, my old school friend Margaret Shaw would be just the woman for Ralph. She's twenty-six. What do you say to getting them in occasionally to dinner, with a game of bridge or five hundred in the evening. It may be a great favor to them to bring them together. They may make a match."

"Do anything you like, my dear, provided you don't put me to any trouble."

So Mr. Eldridge and Miss Shaw were invited to dinner, with cards in the evening. Mr. Eldridge of course played with Mrs. Vandever. Mr. Vandever playing with Miss Shaw. It is singular, what a little thing will start persons on a different track. It was all in the cards. Mr. Vandever and Miss Shaw held all the court cards in the pack from 9 o'clock, when they sat down, till 11, when they arose. This made Mrs. Vandever a trifle irritable. It produced a corresponding exhilaration in Miss Shaw. Furthermore, seeing that Mrs. Vandever was irritated, Miss Shaw, moved by perversity, became very enthusiastic in her expressions to her partner, giving him glances that his wife, being in an ill humor, construed unfavorably. This led the hostess to say a number of nice things to Mr. Eldridge.

When the evening was over and the guests had departed Mr. and Mrs. Vandever went to bed without a word. Mrs. Vandever suspected that in introducing Miss Shaw into her house she had warmed a serpent in her bosom. Mr. Vandever, for the first time in his married life, felt a spark of jealousy of Mr. Eldridge, who was an extremely good looking and attractive man.

The next week when Mr. Vandever came home one afternoon from

AFTER THE GRIP

If You Do Not Recover Your Usual Health Try This Treatment.

For three years after an attack of the grip Mrs. C. B. Pierce, of South Britain, Conn., was in poor health and found no relief until she built up her blood with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. She says:

"I attribute my sickness directly to an attack of the grip. I had fainting spells, which came on me without warning. I would faint away while sitting in a chair or lying in bed. After recovering from them I would be deathly sick for a week or so. I became so much worse that I began to have two or three fainting spells a day. These spells so weakened me that I had scarcely enough strength to get around. My limbs would become swollen especially at night. My sleep was broken for I was extremely nervous and apprehensive of some impending danger. I had severe headaches most of the time and a darning pain over my left eye which affected the whole side of my head. I was troubled with neuralgia pains around my heart and was frequently confined to my bed."

"During two years of my sickness I was treated at different times by three doctors. Their treatment did not afford me relief, so I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. A few boxes of the pills gave me much benefit. My headaches became less severe and I began to feel better in every way. I gave the pills a good trial and was completely cured. I am in good health now and praise Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, for they undoubtedly saved me from years of suffering."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have also cured anemia, chlorosis, general debility, rheumatism and after-effects of fevers and should be given a trial wherever a tonic for the blood and nerves is needed.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are always the same and are sold only in packages bearing the well-known trade-mark and are guaranteed by the manufacturers to contain no opiate, narcotic or anything that could injure the most delicate system.

The genuine are sold by all druggists or will be sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. A valuable booklet, "Diseases of the Blood," containing fuller information will be sent free upon request.

business his wife told him that Miss Shaw had invited the party to dinner and for cards in the evening. Mr. Vandever, fearing that if he declined to accept his wife would think he wished to keep her from again meeting Mr. Eldridge, consented. His wife was much surprised and set down his willingness to a desire to again meet Miss Shaw.

At this meeting the cards ran more evenly, but Miss Shaw seemed to be even more in rapport with Mr. Vandever than before, while Mr. Eldridge treated Mrs. Vandever with a deference that was, to say the least, extremely noticeable. Not for the world would Mr. Vandever show that he noticed certain glances with which Mr. Eldridge favored his wife, but within him he was burning with a smothered fury, and a part of his irritation was for his wife that she did not resent such treatment instead of seeming to be pleased with it.

The four continued to meet once a week at the house of one or the other. Mr. Vandever would have been glad to give up the meetings, and his wife made no objections to doing so, but Mr. Eldridge and Miss Shaw were so urgent when it came their turn to do the entertaining that the Vandeveres felt obliged to yield. Mrs. Vandever attributed Miss Shaw's persistence to a desire to meet her husband, and Mr. Vandever attributed Mr. Eldridge's persistence to a desire to meet his wife.

"Your plan, my dear," said Mr. Vandever one evening before one of these meetings, "for making a match between Eldridge and Miss Shaw doesn't seem to work."

"If it was the retort, 'Miss Shaw seems to be predisposed in another direction.'"

"I don't know anything about that," snarled the husband, "but it's very plain that Eldridge is preoccupied."

"The next time I attempt to make a match," rejoined the wife, "I'll see that there is no one about to lead the lady in the case from her suitor."

Half an hour later the party was at Mr. Eldridge's bachelor quarters, where the meeting was to take place. When the game commenced for the first time Mr. Eldridge and Miss Shaw refrained from any jealous inspiring glances at the Vandeveres. Mrs. Vandever, who was more observant than her husband, detected a tender look passing between the unmarried couple. When the cards were put aside Mr. Eldridge got out a light luncheon and a bottle of iced champagne was brought into the room. There was a cork salute, and the host filled the glasses and said to his guests:

"Many thanks for giving me the loveliest woman in the world. Miss Shaw has consented to be my wife."

When the Vandeveres returned to their home the husband embraced his wife and said:

"My dear, I think you and I can get along without any more couples to come in and spend our evenings with us. And I'm not interested in match-making. These two have been making catpaws of us."

"I expect you're right, dear. They were playing us for the purpose of plucking each other."
